INTRODUCTION

1. Documentary evidence on clandestine Communist organization and practices is rare. For this reason an illustrative group of authentic documents from the archives of the Communist Party of Italy (PCI), discovered in 1927, has been assembled here for study purposes, and also in order to present in some detail the type of secret communications once maintained and filed by a Communist Party.

2. The documents assembled were part of the PCI archives of 1923, seized by the Quostura of Milan in 1927. The scope and breakdown of these archives will be discussed below at greater length. For an understanding of the documents in general it may be useful to review briefly the historical background of the early years of PCI.

3. In 1923 the Communist Party of Italy (PCI) was in its formative stage. Created officially early in 1921 when Communist elements under Antonio Gramsci broke away from the (Italian) Socialist Party, the PCI found itself confronted, after two years of initial organizational efforts, by the intransigent regime of Mussolini who had obtained power in October 1922. 1923 brought a wave of arrests of Communists allegedly involved in a plot against Mussolini. 1924 saw the (first) Secretary General of the Party, Bordiga, leaving the PCI, together with a fraction of Trotskyites. In the same year a left-wing Socialist splinter group, the Partito Socialista Massimalista, joined the PCI. More arrests followed in June 1924; yet in the general elections of 1924 the PCI had polled more than a quarter of a million votes and established itself as the strongest of the opposition parties. By 1926, however, Mussolini declared all opposition parties illegal, and from 1927 on, the PCI led a precarious underground existence, limited to minor organizational and propagandistic activities.

4. The archives of 1923, then, pertain to a period of intensive organizational activity, crowned, apparently, by the success in 1924. Although not outlawed technically, the political Party organization of the PCI was constantly on the defensive vis-à-vis the Fascist police. The structure and organization of the still legal Party machine followed the pattern prescribed by the Comintern.

5. As a result of early police pressure, many Italian Communists were forced to seek refuge outside of Italy, and Party organizations in exile sprang up gradually. Paris became the main center of PCI activities abroad; Switzerland was also employed as an operational base; PCI connections and, probably, PCI organizations in Berlin existed as early as 1921. Documents in the archives under discussion indicate that the foreign organization of the PCI may have been scattered even more widely: a list of foreign addresses of the "CE" (probably Central Executive or Central Committee) of the PCI, as well as addresses found in possession of the PCI leader Umberto Terracini, pertain to Berlin, Vienna, Stockholm, Riga, Moscow, Madrid, Klagenfurt, Innsbruck, Athens, Paris, Marseille, Mentone, Sofia, Bucharest, New York, Prague, Buenos Aires, Rosario de Santa Fe, Melbourne, Brussels, Cairo, Alexandria, etc. At this late date it is, of course, impossible to ascertain the precise significance of these foreign addresses--whether they were forwarding points for correspondence with the indigenous Party or with exiled PCI personalities or organizations; whether they were set up for correspondence on matters of political routine, or clandestine operations; whether or not they were also at the disposition of the Comintern. (Umberto Terracini, e.g., was a member of the Executive Committee and the Praesidium of the Comintern in 1921, 1922.) In any case, the foreign connections of the PCI were far flung, even during the early period to which the documents pertain.

6. In organizational terms, the documents reveal unmistakably that there existed, in addition to the political--overt PCI organization, a highly secret "illegal" organization, segregated in conspiratorial terms from the normal Party organization. This secret apparatus consisted apparently of a central (national) organization and numerous regional offices and/or functionaries operating parallel to, and in conjunction with, the regional and local Party organization. Unknown to the rank and file and identified only to key functionaries on the national and regional level, this secret network of "fiduciaries" performed offensive and defensive functions of an extremely sensitive nature which, for reasons of security, could not be entrusted to the normal and therefore publicly exposed Party organizations. These functions are defined in the documents under discussion; they apparently embraced: a) Maintenance and control of a secure communications network within the PCI for the transmission of correspondence to and from PCI headquarters to subordinate Party organizations and, obviously, also within the secret network itself.

It is not clear whether communications with the Comintern were also carried out by the network. (This extensive communication chain consisted of a string of secure forwarding addresses to which communications were transmitted in sealed envelopes carrying a coded designation of the addressee. The sealed envelopes were placed in an outer envelope addressed to the person representing the forwarding point. At the forwarding point the communication appears to have been picked up by a secure intermediary of the addressee.)

b) Organization of illegal border-crossings.

c) Planning and maintenance of a para-military insurrectionary organization. (Although the documents do not reveal the existence of an extensive para-military force, they indicate clearly that planning and development of military cadres, particularly through training in Moscow, proceeded according to plan.)

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

II.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

d) Information procurement through secret penetration of the government apparatus, including armed and security forces, as well as hostile political groups and parties.

e) Technical support, e.g., maintenance of arms caches, provision of arms and ammunition, maintenance of secret meeting places and archives, secret printing facilities, etc.

f) Development and recruitment of personnel suitable for work in the secret apparatus.

7. The outline of this secret organization, operating alongside the normal and more or less public political Party organization, corresponds strikingly to the notorious Apparatus of the (pre-Hitler) German Communist Party. It may be fair to state that PCI organized this "illegal" apparatus in accordance with the Conditions of Admission to the Comintern, which requested that Communist Parties should "create everywhere a parallel illegal apparatus which at the decisive moment should be of assistance to the party to do its duty toward the revolution." The documents assembled here furnish the only known authentic documentation of such an "illegal, parallel organization." (Some doubt remains what the actual Party nomenclature was for the illegal organization. The term "raggruppamento" crops up in references but it is not possible to ascertain its applicability.)

8. The documents also reveal some of the connections of PCI with the Comintern, particularly financial subsidies received. These are also unique because they illustrate to a certain extent the budgetary policies of the Comintern.

9. The PCI archives from which the documents were taken are not available in their entirety. However, from existing descriptions of a large portion of the seized files, the filing system can be reconstructed at least partially. The files were numbered in successive order and bore subject headings. They contained both cryptograms and documents in clear text. So far as can be judged, the cryptograms pertained to the activities and correspondence of the "illegal" apparatus described above, to intra-Party communications and matters of international Communist organization(s) and connections. A brief description and summary of the more significant files follows:

#68: Entitled "BERLIN", this file contains cryptograms, and reflects apparently some of the activities of the local organization of the PCI in Berlin.

#69: Entitled "EKKI-EC", this file, containing cryptograms, apparently reflects relations of CP Italy with the Comintern.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

III.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

(EKKI stands for the Executive Committee of the Comintern.) The file contains, e.g., correspondence with the representatives of CP Italy at Comintern headquarters in Moscow; financial accounts and situation reports on Party organizations in Italy, probably for Comintern use. Movements of Communists from and to Moscow are also reflected.

- #72: Entitled "Foreign Parties," the file contains a letter from the American Labor Party with a photograph of Vittorio Vidali; correspondence with Swiss Communists; instructions for (Italian) Communists abroad; correspondence on organizers for Canada and Argentina; correspondence from CP Bulgaria, etc.
- #78: Entitled "C.E. of P.C." (Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party) the file contains, e.g., minutes of meetings of the Party Secretariat, and of meetings of the C.E.
- #79: Entitled "Communications from the C.E." the file contains miscellaneous documents on organizational matters, expulsions and resignations of leaders, membership of foreigners, etc.
- #81: Entitled "Syndical Committee," the file contains miscellaneous correspondence on labor matters.
- #82: Entitled "Parliamentary Groups," the file reflects activities and deliberations of the parliamentary fraction of PCI.
- #83: Entitled "Administration of the Party," the file contains reports on an administrative inspection of the Party organization in Milan; administrative requirements; instructions for account keeping, etc.
- #84: Entitled "Fed. Giovanile," (Youth Federation) the file contains cryptograms and plain texts concerning youth matters, such as situation and other reports to the Communist Youth International in Moscow; a letter to the Norwegian CP Youth organization; instructions from the Communist Youth International in Moscow; etc.
- #103, 101, 109, 110, 112: These files entitled "Segr. Int." (Interregional Secretary) No. 1,2,3,4,5, respectively, reflect activities, correspondence, instructions and organizational matters pertaining to several inter-regional PCI organizations. They contain clear texts and cryptograms.
- #107: The file entitled "Vienna" contains clear texts and cryptographic messages. It contains correspondence to and from Moscow; a "political" address of the First Office (apparently connected with the illegal organization); a letter to Italian railroad men requesting them to sabotage shipment of arms to the enemies of the USSR.

#113: The file entitled "Circulars", contains printed instructions on Party organization; to the Interregional Secretary; functions of the Interregional Secretary, Communist labor policy, etc.

#118: Entitled "Profintern" the file contains correspondence between PCI and the Profintern, the international labor auxiliary of the Comintern; a memorandum by Atchkanov on offices in Russian ports, meetings at Moscow, etc.

#125: Entitled "Federations A. B. C. D. E. F." the file contains matters pertaining to PCI (Federation) activities in Florence, Ferrara, Cremona, Bologna, Bergamo, Bari, Cosenza, etc.

#126: Entitled "Federations G. H. I. L. M. N." the file contains matters pertaining to PCI (Federation) activities in Milan, Leghorn, Genova, etc.

#127: Entitled "Federations O. P. Q. R. S. T. U. V. Z." the file pertains to PCI (Federation) activities in Verona, Udine, Trieste, Treviso, Turin, Roma, Parma, Ravenna, Novarra, Naples, etc.

10. In addition to the preceding files, envelopes were found which contained accounts of the financial transactions of PCI, e.g.:

- 1922 - General estimate for 1923
- 1922 - General Expenses 1 January to 30 June
- 1921 - General estimate for 1922
- 1921 - General Expenses for 1921
- 1922 - I. Summary of accounts "Review" (Naples management)
- 1922 - I. Summary of accounts of Second office (Labor Union affairs)
- 1922 - I. Summary of accounts "Agrarian Section."

11. A last envelope is entitled "ROMPICAPI" and contains an inside envelope marked "Index - Addresses of the C.E." This index is a cryptographic list of forwarding addresses for the more important PCI members for the year 1921 - 1923. Among these are numerous forwarding addresses outside of Italy (see above, para. 5).

12. Part One (see below) presents the most illustrative samples of documents contained in the archives of 1923. They have been grouped under three headings:

- I. "Illegal" Organization of the Communist Party of Italy
- II. Subversion of Army and Navy
- III. Comintern

These documents represent study material not commonly available.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

V.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

Through them direct insight can be gained into the workings of the secret "illegal" apparatus described above (see paragraphs 7 and 8.)

13. Part two (see below) represents an investigative experiment. Part two lists in alphabetical order a selection of foreign addresses apparently utilized by the PCI for international communications. The precise nature and significance of these communications cannot be established in all cases. In some cases it is perceptible from the documents and entries themselves. The basic stock of "forwarding" addresses stems from the ROMPICAPI envelope (see above under paragraph 11). Others appear to have been in possession of the PCI leader Umberto Terracini. Where possible, the entry in the original document has been reproduced in its entirety under heading "A" appearing in the text under the name of the person indicated. Under heading "B" other currently available information on the person is listed in order to determine the significance of the person or his former relationship with PCI and the Communist movement. It is anticipated that through continued investigation of these addresses, persons with hitherto unknown Communist connections may be uncovered, and possibly some individuals with clandestine assignments. The current status of this experimental investigation indicates that several persons utilized by PCI in the early twenties have become public leaders in the movement, and that the many intervening years make a back-track investigation difficult. Nevertheless, persons utilized for conspiratorial purposes represent permanent targets of interest, and may be profitably included in a working record.

14. This collection of rare documentary evidence on "illegal" and conspiratorial organization and practices of the Communist Party of Italy should furnish valuable study material to persons concerned with investigative problems. They throw into relief the need for the acquisition of current materials of a similar nature.

15. Clearly the present paper opens wider perspectives on the approach to the problem of analysis and coverage of secret Communist activities, past or current. Communist conspiratorial organizations and practices are always skillfully concealed and securely administered. If the current undercover capabilities of the international Communist movement are to be adequately revealed and its structure and ramifications re-created, an intensive and well co-ordinated effort must be made to deploy and support adequate forces capable of meeting the challenge of the "professional revolutionaries" whose professional approach is reflected in the early documents presented in this paper, and whose professional skill is likely to have increased since the days when the secret apparatus of the Communist Party of Italy was created.

NOTE

1. In order to preserve the character of the documents their translated text has been rendered so as to represent the original version as closely as possible.

2. Attention is called to the fact that names appearing in the correspondence are often pseudonyms. Pseudonyms were assigned to functionaries for obvious security reasons, and were frequently changed in order to prevent identification. It is entirely possible that the same pseudonym was used for several individuals. The well-known founder of CPI, GRAMSCI, was covered by the pseudonym MASCI. Palmiro TOGLIATTI's pseudonym was, at one time, PALMI. Umberto TERRACINI held the pseudonym of URBANI. It is worth noting that both TERRACINI and TOGLIATTI are now at the helm of the Party, and are obviously able to draw on their considerable conspiratorial experience of the past.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

XII.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

3. Some of the communications bear indicators which may reflect name and place of origin. The Comintern correspondence from Moscow (see pages 36 and 37) is indicated by a series of numbers beginning in all cases with 33, and followed variously by 01, 001, 002.

4. The cypher system used by PCI at the time is reflected to a certain extent (see pages 15, 16). However, a full technical analysis of the system is beyond the scope of this presentation.

5. In order to follow the financial transactions of PCI as reflected in the documents, it should be born in mind that the average exchange rate of the lira in 1923 was 4.6 cents per lira.

6. The addresses found in TERRACINI's notebook and reflected among the conspiratorial addresses in Part Two may pertain to a period preceding and up to 1927 since there are indications that the notebook was seized in 1927. Some of the addresses in TERRACINI's notebook duplicate those in the ROMPICAPI folder.

I. "ILLEGAL" ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF ITALY (PCI)

A. Letter to Dino Cervi, Milan, 6 August 1923.

TO DINO CERVI MILANO 6 August 1923
We write to you with considerable delay in the time foreseen: We hope you will pardon us. Unfortunately the nature of our... (Editor's Comment: A word appears to be omitted)... impedes that regularity which we would like also.

In the present writing we will limit ourselves to fix the principal points of your activities and those which most adapt themselves to writing: we will withhold those points which are omitted for the sake of brevity to explain them verbally to you, and which points on the other hand will not prejudice those which we hereinafter set forth.

Your principal tasks (and those of all of our fiduciaries) may be defined as follows: 1) to give to the Party an internal organization which is capable of resisting any reactionary blow; 2) to give to the Party a military organization which at any determined moment may be transformed into an offensive corps; 3) endow the Party with those means of information which are rendered necessary in the development of revolutionary activity; 4) endow the Party with various technical means; 5) develop in your own Province the network of fiduciaries and the means of contact (independent of any other cause). At this point we pass to the illustration of each point.

1. The form of organization called "Raggruppamenti" is that which best lends itself to the defense of the relations of the directive center with the comrades, as I have already had occasion to make clear to you.

In interesting yourself in the new form of internal organization of the Party, you do not invade an entity not reserved to our fiduciaries. In the instructions concerning the Raggruppamento it is clearly stated that the organization has also certain legal tasks (such as propaganda, collection of dues, etc., etc.) Its structure must be completely illegal; and this must be so because the Party, not being able to function freely, must equip itself in such a manner as to resist reaction. Therefore the Raggruppamento, even when it serves as a means of contact between the members of the Party and the Executive of the Section, must be controlled and assisted by our fiduciaries.

In this field there must be collaboration between the director of the Raggruppamento and the fiduciary; the fiduciary must bring into play the personal experience acquired in the former, but now suspended, military formations

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. EYES ONLY~~

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

2) Our military organization (formations) upon the advent of Fascism and in order to facilitate the organizing of the Raggruppamento was suspended. This however does not mean that there must be abandoned all that was accomplished in that field. Our fiduciaries must take measures to keep the directive part of the organization alive, that is the Provincial Commandant, the Commandants of Zones, Sections, etc., etc. If that organization has no immediate tasks, because of the present political situation, this does not mean that its organization must be lost. In fact it must be assisted in order that it may arise at any moment and may possess an offensive quality.

3) This point is one of the most delicate and difficult. To create an information network is not the most simple thing to do. But this must succeed; a revolutionary Party cannot hope to attack without having precise knowledge of the enemy's camp. It is necessary therefore that an information network be created in every enemy military and political camp, in the national militia, in the Army, Police, Judiciary, Fascist Party, and the Liberal, Popular, Social-democrat parties, and in the masonry. For this long and patient work it is necessary to observe the most prudent and secure methods; the individuals chosen must be of proven belief and capability. The informers, especially those in the Political Parties should be of a certain degree of culture and knowledge of the political policies of the Parties into which they enter, - with oratorical ability; with capability and energy to impose upon the local sections of the Party those political points of view tending to favor our own Party. All of the informers must, in the initial stages, seek to gain confidence in order to seek to enter in every field in the directive organs.

4) Endow the party with various technical means. Flanking every illegal organization there must be technical means established to facilitate a taken action. Therefore, flanking the actual maintaining of the squads in the formations, care must be taken that all arms are in a safe place and under the control of a fiduciary. Maintenance must be such that the material will not be subject to deterioration.

Another important phase is that of the illegal press. In this regard our office will soon issue precise instructions. In the meantime however means must be sought to find a solution to this problem.

The search for meeting places, for deposit of documents, etc., etc., are technical means for which the fiduciary must provide.

5) To develop in your own Province the network of local

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

fiduciaries is an important task. The organizational forms which the Provincial fiduciary applies to the Capiluoghi must be extended through the Province. In this great care must be exercised because a provincial organization may be very vulnerable. Attention must also be given to the liaison between Sections and the Federation organs: preferably by contacts independent of any public utilities (railroads, trolley, post and telephone).

These, in a most general manner, are the tasks reserved to the "illegal" fiduciaries. But in order that these objectives be undertaken there must exist between the fiduciary and the Secretary of the Federation an intense collaboration. In effect it is a question of work: one sole person cannot execute duties which may be called "legal" and "illegal". We say the Secretary of the Federation because the contacts between him and the fiduciary must not become known even to the members of the Executive Committee of the Federation.

We believe we have well indicated the duties attributed to you. What we have stated has a permanent character, but in the execution of our activities, cases and problems may present themselves which must be solved by mutual accord. Write to me concerning this and assure us of this letter.

Cordial greetings."

Having set the basic question I now answer your queries: At present you have the function of political control on the illegal work entrusted by me to various comrades. I explained various functions: MANFREDI (liaison) internal, passages abroad, illegal press, control of the raggruppamento, formations now potential and active and developing when the C.E. desires. We have received your letter dated 9 current. We have also received yours dated 27/4 and 3/5. We could not reply to them because of the known incidents and because they regarded administrative and political matters. In this regard it is well that you take note that all which does not concern itself with our office, - that is, the Party's illegal activity must be held separate from the administrative and political material which must be sent to the C.E. which avails itself of its special network.

As for yours of the 27th April in which you spoke of membership cards and you set forth various addresses, we have sent everything to the C.E. There was also attached an expense account for Lire 190.50. Does this concern us or the C.E.?

As to yours dated 3/5 we have passed on to the C.E. all that concerned the committee, PELUSO, the membership cards, and the transportation of the leaflets for the first of May. As for those three young men who are being sought for having wounded the fascists, you must already know that there is a welfare committee at HOME who is especially charged with the solution of these matters. You must therefore refer to it. As to yours of 8 May we have transmitted the address and the application for the membership cards from RAVENNA to the C.E.

We come now to yours dated 9 current. We do not cast any doubts upon the fact that rules.....sent to you were not not observed by you: we are glad about this. These rules of prudence were sent to all the fiduciaries and naturally struck at those who already observed the rules. The address sent to you serves to correspond with our office; those preceding ones of MILANO will remain here, suspended. The change of addresses asked by you is not possible. We have already transmitted to the various provinces the said addresses. It remains therefore set that our two forwarding points are that of the SCATOLIFICIO and that of MERIGHI ROSA. To correspond with you we will use that of PASSERINI. The correspondence which arrives at our forwarding points must be withdrawn by you and held in deposit. If, however, it consists of a small quantity, you can send it to us at our address. If however it consists of much correspondence you must advise us and we shall send to withdraw it. Reply to us assuring us of this. Write to us also indicating who must avail themselves of the addresses which you sent in your preceding letters, more particularly those of SOLDATE VERGINIA, LOVATTINI OLGA, AVV. TEOCRITO DI GIORGIO. Must they be used by us or by the C.E.? Cordial greetings."

"TO ROSA TORINO

We reply with relation to what you have related to our traveler. We must, before everything else, reprove you for your dilatoriness in the search for the two addresses requested of you by our letter since the 19 May and by subsequent letters. You should have understood that our strong insistence (we sent our travelers three times) indicated an absolute need for these addresses. We hope that in the future our contacts will accelerate themselves and that they will be closer. It may be that this has resulted from your many engagements. This must be eliminated: our fiduciaries cannot have any other engagements. If the conditions in your city do not permit that you resign from the duties you now cover (it seems to us that you are the federal secretary) you should find a comrade who is able, serious and little known, who can substitute you. But until you have found such a comrade it remains understood that you must still continue to function as our fiduciary.

We have begun a search for that person who has represented himself to be the fiduciary of LORIS. We have been informed that a fiduciary of ours from FIRENZE had the name of GIULIO ARRIGONI, but his name was PIAGGI RUGGERO and not BELMONTE. In any case it is a matter of dealing with a rascal. Our office has never authorized the local fiduciaries to present themselves to the various sections to ask assistance. The party has its appropriate organs assigned to that work. If it is possible for you, you should try to seek the person and bring the matter out in the open. It is certain that your good faith has been attacked, - and in the future one must be more cautious and less innocent. Our traveling fiduciaries must be in possession of regular orders with rubber stamp LORIS, presentable on demand. The recommendations of the deputies are not valid for our contacts. Write to us when your search will have resulted in something solid. We take note of the statements made to our traveler concerning the raggruppamento. It is necessary, however, to hurry up the organization of the raggruppamento in accordance with the rules which we have issued. Such an organization is essential to the ultimate work of the party and it must have precedence over everything else."

"The following rules, which we have repeatedly sent to our fiduciaries must be seriously taken into consideration. To transgress upon them means placing many comrades at the risk of the police and ruining for a certain time the letter contacts.

1. The addresses used in corresponding with us must not be communicated to anyone, even to a known party member.
2. The addresses must never be kept written in a regular manner. If you do not succeed to learn them by memory (and this is not very difficult) they must be transcribed in cipher, and placed, enciphered, in a most safe place.
3. The letters addressed to us must never be kept in the pocket any longer than is necessary for the mailing of them.
4. As soon as one of our letters has been received the envelope carrying the private address and the departure post-stamp must at once be destroyed. The contents, if they must be conserved, are also placed away."

1. The address used to correspond with us must not be communicated to anyone (except to our traveling fiduciaries who are provided with regular orders) even if he is a person known to be a member of the Party.

2. The addresses must never be kept in the ordinary manner. If you do not succeed in memorizing them (and this is not very difficult) they must be transcribed in cipher and deposited in a most safe place.

3. Letters directed to us must not be kept in the pocket any longer than is necessary for the mailing of them.

4. As soon as one of our letters is received the first envelope must be destroyed (that which carries the private address and the postal departure stamp) the contents are conserved but deposited in cipher in a safe place. If instead, it is a simple communication or something which may be learned by memory then it must be destroyed.

The above may seem puerile or may touch upon your sensitiveness. But recent cases of culpable thoughtlessness (for example comrades who permitted addresses and letters directed to us to be found upon them) oblige us to remind our fiduciaries of the elementary rules.

Send us at once a receipt for the present letter.

T. Untitled document of 30 December 1922

30 December 1922

"The situation which after the advent of Fascism seemed to have improved and in that optimistic sense was reported to Rome, has now gravely deteriorated. The CC (Central Committee) is aware of a circular issued by our Provincial Committee (Comitato Provinciale) to all the sections of the province in which there was given as the reply address that of the rooming house of Comrade Straneo, but with an imaginary name, Milanese Giuseppe. This was done in order that the Fascists' attention would not be drawn to the notoriety of the name Straneo. To the said circular only three answers came to the Comitato Provinciale (Provincial Committee). The matter seemed a little excessive but was attributed to the critical situation of the Comrades of our province. On the day of the 19th Straneo was unexpectedly arrested and released the day after. Here is the account given by him yesterday, the 21st, to Ceriana: I was conducted to the Questura by the police to the presence of the Consul of this Fascist Legion. He exhibited 10 or 12 letters (sequestered) addressed to Milanese, inviting him, under the threat of death to reveal who Milanese might be. Straneo was compelled to confess completely the truth concerning which the Fascisti claimed to have full knowledge, except as to the identity of Milanese. He had to, therefore, name or confirm the names of the members of the Comitato Provinciale (Provincial Committee) of Alessandria and assured them that the very head was no other than Milanese. After his signature of the relative minutes and the usual admonition to no longer concern himself with propaganda, he was released. The other two members of the Provincial Committee (Ceriana and Popu) have not until now been searched. As you can see from all this, the result is that 1) The sections of the province who had in relatively large numbers replied to the circular, are at the mercy of the Fascists. 2) Some traitor in the province communicated the arranged address to the Fascio. 3) The Fascists know in detail all of the members of our principal charges and certainly must maintain surveillance of every activity. 4) Straneo assured the Fascists that our Federation had for the time disbanded in accordance with its statute following the negative outcome of our circular. The Provincial Committee awaits instructions concerning this matter, warning that it is not possible to pass the Provincial Committee to other Comrades, first of all because they are all known to the Fascists, secondly because as to those less known there is no certainty of trustworthiness. We have already transmitted instructions concerning the matter."

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

U. Letter to Pierotto, Cremona, Circular #5, 3 February 1923

"TO PIEROTTO CREMONA CIRCULAR N.5. 3 February 1923 N.35

Dearest,

The Executive Committee of the Youth Federation has provided that all of the provincial secretaries may correspond with it by cipher. In order to put this decision into effect, we charge you with referring the following to the provincial youth secretaries: The secretary of the federation will buy the following book which will be used for ciphering: Biblioteca del Popolo - Storia dell'Impero Romano dalla morte di Giulio Cesare fino alla venuta di Odoacre" Casa Editrice Sonzogno N.29 -(People's Library, "Story of the Roman Empire- From the Death of Julius Caesar until the Advent of Odoacer", Sonzogno Publishing House.)

It must be used in the following manner: Choose one page, as the case may be, write the number thereof underneath the date of the letter which you are writing. This will mean that for the entire letter I will make use of only that one page. To write words in cipher, pick the letters which you require, jumping from one line to the other. You will write the number of the line counting from the top down, and after the number of the letter counting the letters only from left to right. This will make a number like a fraction, for example:

3/5 8/1 2/3 10/8 1/9 5/12//13/6 7/11

You will use the same method writing to the provincial secretary; to the C.E. of the Youth Federation C, who will sign himself with the pseudonym of "FABRIZIO". (Comment: C.E. means COMITATO ESECUTIVO or Executive Committee; Youth Federation C. probably means CENTRAL YOUTH FEDERATION). We feel that these instructions are sufficiently clear. However if such is not so we shall be happy to clarify it more upon your request.

Cordial greetings.

II. SUBVERSION OF ARMY AND NAVY

A. Letter to Rebuffanti, Rome, Circular #2, dated 7 December 1922

"To Rebuffanti - Rome 7 December 1922
No.685

After having given you our instructions and in view of the time which has since passed we believe that you must have been able to create the mechanism for our illegal work in the army. That same work of confederation amongst us, - through you and the soldier comrades, - since it is a work susceptible of continuous development, - of correction, of improvement, - and since every call or relief of every class brings with it new work, - and complicates it and prolongs it, this work, as we were saying, requires in extensive degrees your constant vigilance, - your continuous energetic pressure on those elements in the army who constitute the nerve fiber network of our organization.

It is necessary to begin the exploitation of the organizational apparatus already created. And to begin it and carry it forward with every caution, without guilty hastiness - but with severe good will and tenacious energy for the following points:

- A) Obtain the entry of able and secure soldiers in places of great confidence. There they must become masters of every information and data of their immediate and superior commands in order to refer them to us.

- B) Charge others to lift the exact plans of all the buildings and areas, depots, which are of military interest. The same must be done for the barracks and buildings of the Public Safety, profiting from the fact that often soldiers are assigned for reasons of public safety in the said buildings.
- C) Disseminate the local communist printed matter, and daily writings and those leaflets which we will transmit, thus arriving at all the strata of the army.
- D) Soldier sympathizers must fraternize efficiently with the Royal Guard and the Carabinieri to knock holes in that sphere, letting our propaganda enter, especially giving it an economic character.
- E) Take over arms, munitions explosives, consigning them to our fiduciaries; favor outside transactions in contraband arms, etc., etc.

We have faith in your activity. We await your confirmation and then notice of the placing into effect of these instructions. Greetings."

B. Letter to Rebuffanti, Rome, Circular #4, 20 January 1923

"TO REBUFFANTI ROMA CIRCULAR N.4 20 January 1923 N.9

One element indispensable to effectively conduct our battle in order to win when the great force will have unchained itself, - for the purpose of consolidating our conquest and sustaining the Communist dictatorship, is an element which unfortunately until now has been neglected. It is the revolutionary proselytizing amongst the soldiers of the Navy.

What strength the Navy in general presents is well known to all and in an especially well known way for Italy, a country in great part bordered by the sea.

The navy possesses solid forces of discipline, of formations, - it is well armed and has in its ships really powerful and fearful mobile forces. It is a strong band which on land is equivalent to the infantry and the artillery, and which can hold the ports and guard the coasts. It can also rapidly relocate troops and artillery by sea placing means of offense where they are necessary, even if on land all contacts are impeded or assailed. It can therefore choke off the nation impeding contacts with the sea. It can, even without considering that very important side of international relations, in the sense of threats from reactionary states, isolate Sicily and Sardinia thus assisting the concentration of counter-revolutionary forces which would be preparing to depart for the purpose of regaining control of the continent.

It is a problem, in substance, of great importance and urgent interest.

The forces of the navy are constituted in the great majority of young proletarians. We therefore do not have before us an impenetrable institution: wherever there are young proletarians there can be rebels. It is a matter of entering into the mass of the Royal Navy, discover those individuals who can most understand and assist us.

The first step which must be taken therefore is this one: seek out in each province those young men in the service of the Navy who are communists or sympathizers or in any manner subversive.

As soon as one of these is known, advise us of the name, place of origin, exact data concerning his service, his political inclinations.

Having received these elementary data we will be able to make the provisions for the definite work which we must do.

Write us at once a receipt for the present letter, news, opinions and proposals regarding the matter treated in this circular.

Cordial greetings."

20 September 1922

Reply to yours dated 15 of the current month.

Your second circular makes me understand very clearly how my task is vast and laborious. Notwithstanding this, however, I will not withhold from dedicating myself entirely to our movement, following always the path laid out. I have already transmitted a circular to all of the sections that I be furnished with the addresses of the military comrades who are assigned to other Provinces. I have already sought to communicate with the service security at Mantova. At present he is on leave, within a few days he will return and I will communicate with him.

Greetings Carlo NERI.

"My most dear, I reply to yours dated 3 current month No. 404 - Circular No. 2. To tell the truth I must advise you that unfortunately I do not have an organization which provides any good faith of functioning until now, because of the lack of capable elements who could furnish me with exact information on the residence and security of our military comrades. This situation will continue for a long time and until I will have terminated the civilian liaison and information work which is proceeding reasonably well and I hope I shall be able to terminate it no later than the coming January. This will give me as a first accomplishment the organism for military penetration. Awaiting your reply and extending to you fraternal greetings."

Dearest,

We acknowledge receipt of yours dated 22 current. The address which you have transcribed etc. Now listen: We do not have even one address of comrade soldiers who are in your city and province.

On the other hand, it is indispensable that someone be found to seriously begin the work in the army.

Do you not know any soldier? But if you have in fact already succeeded in finding one, let him give you the names of his military comrades who claim to be Communist and the

"Dearest,

I acknowledge receipt of yours of 28-12 and a.s. and 9 a.m. Concerning that which you requested in your first letter I will say that I can only with great difficulty do what you desire because of the diffident and different ground on which I am compelled to act. It seems to me, according to orders you have previously sent me that it is the duty of the provincial fiduciaries to inform you of the names and localities of the soldier comrades. If you will exact this work from them all, you will see that the results of the army work will be more easy and more safe in addition to being more rapid. I, in the meantime will begin this by sending you the address of a "secure" soldier comrade: Laurenzi Giuseppe Stazione r.t. Piazza d'Armi, Tivoli. I have sent to the Provincial Secretary the new address which for your assurance I transcribe: Mario Bianchini, Albergho Diurno, Piazza Venezia, Roma. Yours is that one which I have already sent to Rome.

Awaiting, greetings,
Gigi Prati."

We reply to yours of the 29/11 and to the other two dated 4 current. The new address which should have been sent to Rome has already been sent. The address which we sent you for the Provincial Secretary is exact. We learn from your letter that you are unemployed. We are sorry, but glad because this gives promise of your working for us a great deal. Concerning Comrade Cavestro Adriano of Bologna whom you wish us to interest ourselves about, - this is not our jurisdiction. If he has lost his membership card it is not us who must concern ourselves, because that is a legal matter. You must write to the Youth Executive at Rome, and they will answer you. We now send you the following addresses. They are military comrades with whom you must place yourself in contact in accordance with the instructions of our Circular I; and place into effect the instructions of our 2nd circular.

It is necessary to establish at Odessa a forwarding point to which our smugglers can go, - a method of recognition, (a word of the day or countersign). The arms which we request at this time are automatic pistols possibly of Mauser or Steyr make. If they should be of Russian manufacture, many cartridges would be required. - Poniards- Bombs is they are of such type as may be transported under difficult conditions without too much risk - explosives adaptable for the loading of bombs - Ask Moscow if they can manufacture filgrain paper which may be adapted to the printing of Italian passports. P. Undated letter signed Cesare Rebuffanti

"Carissimo,

As soon as I had received your letter I advised you inasmuch etc. I waited also in order to be able to give you some message regarding the radio. I searched and asked. Until now I do not find anything in this regard. The work amongst the soldiers has borne little fruit for a multiplicity of reasons. I was above all disappointed because of the substitutes who were to have directly occupied themselves. Having changed the first one, I sought another one, but this one did very little and now he is going soldiering whereas until now he had reformed. Now again, I am without one. I was about to do a good piece of business in these goods, but it failed, as I wrote you, - and not because of my fault. I had no contact with those who were in the province. I will try to do better in the future. As for the explosives concerning which I have already spoken to you, the most convenient and economical are the nitrates of ammonia and there are various types of these. We must therefore now try those which are most adaptable to our case and at the same time are most economical. They were used as charges in bomb charges. I have suspended working because of lack of material, resulting from the lack of money. The most economical, buying it at retail which increases the cost a great deal, is 27 or 28 lire per kilo. I have found a person who can furnish gelatine and detonators, but for payment, and I will let you know what his demands are, because I still do not know. I have read your last circular. I shall take advantage of the reorganizational circuit which is being made, to charge one among them to create fiduciaries for the principal centers and zones, as the case may be. I must rely upon others, etc.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

I will therefore try to make arrangements with the Federation Secretary and the adult fiduciary, and if I succeed in doing so, etc.

In this regard it would serve to remember, too, the proverb, "He that has time does not wait on time". (For this reason we have always allowed ourselves to fall into a state of unreadiness). In addition I had a complete plan for the armament of the provinces from which continuous requests come in, etc.

There is lacking, too, a military commandant for the city and the province. As to whether this has now been done I am not aware. In this manner everything would come to be coordinated and have a single direction. There would also be a greater sense of responsibility in the various phases of the illegal work. There are two of our sympathizers who have always actively worked with us who are now fugitives since last year and would like to go abroad, - to Russia most willingly. There are two good workers, etc.

I will send to you as soon as I have completed it, the list of the new addresses of the regiment or corps of our friends. I am already beginning to receive some. Etc. I am awaiting your reply. Cordial greetings.

Now that you write to me as you did in yours of the 19th, I will request confirmation at Rome, but you too should look back into your memory.

I am in possession of pistols, machineguns, - but let me know if I may ship them as baggage or how. You have to advance at least one half of the cost which is three hundred lire each. I can furnish you at will with automatic revolvers, Deucht make, seven-seventy-five caliber with spare cartridge case for one hundred and sixty five lire. Revolver bullets at will at one centesimi thirty each (Editor's comment: Centesimo is one hundredth part of a lire; the price here would be 1.30 Lire). Payment as above. Reply at the earliest.

Greetings."

"TO COROLLA TORINO U.A.

I have several times asked you to ship as personal baggage to Forli the machine gun in a strong small trunk. SCHWRI wrote me or told me, - I don't remember which, that the little trunk was ready for shipment by that GAGLIAZZO refused to make up the papers.

It is absolutely urgent that the shipment take place at once. GAGLIAZZO or RABESSANA or a paid up comrade are unconditionally ordered to make the shipment and to bring the baggage-check here at once. Whoever comes must consign the baggage-check and key in a sealed envelope to Louis VEGGIETTI, at the small house in Porta Venezia, without saying a word about the matter. On the envelope write "per Antonio". Advise him that if he refuses without good reason we shall proceed against him disciplinarily.

We remind you again that the arms and ammunition in the little trunk be surrounded with soft, light material. You can write to us about "kitchen utensils" or the like. Give us a confirmation at once.

Cordial greetings."

sixty-five and three hundred shots. ROBERTO has sent you the baggage check and key by registered mail. I hope that everything has gone well. The goods amounted to nine hundred and fifty lire.

As soon as you have sent me the balance and the suitcases I shall send you other goods. Make arrangements at once to allow me to hold a check here and to allow Rome to hold the suitcases and keys.

If you have a means of sending by a person (traveler or railroadman), the suitcases to Rome, all the better; if not fill them well with rags and send them to Rome as baggage. Send the baggagecheck and keys by registered mail to Giuseppe LEMMI, Via di Repeta twelve to Rome...I have not yet received your receipt for the reimbursement of the Lire nine hundred. Send it to me at once.

"Dearest,

21.1.923 N. 13

I have received the letter dated 19 c.m. and the address is all right. Concerning the glue, - I have bought some and I hope you will notice it in opening it. More or less, insofar as the soldiers are concerned little has been done, at least something has been done. I say this concerning the present because more could have been done in the past. It was I who sent him to Milano some time ago. I have now been able to obtain 8 cartridge cases for PIAT machine-guns with their respective 400 cartridges. Proceeding along I hope to be able to do more. With the Artillery and the names you sent to me there is nothing to be done because I believe they are afraid. In any case I will change my assistant, my fiduciary believing that it is not the fault of my soldier comrades.

Many greetings,
Pepe GUGLIELMO."

Illari of Parma. He has been warned and we well know that he has never done his duty. You are therefore asked to cut yourself off immediately from him.

We are pleased that you have been able to do a few small things. Take careful note however, that the 8 cartridge cases and the 407 cartridges must be placed in a most secure place and that they are at the disposition of this office. We congratulate you for your work and while in the meantime we laud this job and we urge you to persist along these grounds, we warn you that you are responsible for material which is missing and that you would have to answer to this office in case that should happen. Is the adult fiduciary familiar with this matter? With reference to the artillerymen whose names I sent you, I remind you that the two from Perugia are secure and the three from Novara are sympathizers

It is all right about.....the glue.

Dearest,

We received in due course your letter dated 9/12/922, and attached to it the diagram of the place in which arms would be found. We have delayed writing in order to seek to exploit the diagram but we have not succeeded. Are you still in contact with the soldier who gave you the information? In that case we charge you with asking him:

1. What stuff is there in the place indicated and how much?
2. Would he be in a position, even at our expense, to take himself to the place and give information there to such person as we would indicate.

We beg you to answer speedily.

Here is another address of a comrade of the COMO section:
Soldier: Corti, Annibale, 80th Fanteria, Compagnia Stato Maggiore, Verona.

5 February 1923 N.8

"Dearest,

I have received yours dated 20, N.8. I understand very well the great importance of what you set forth and the work in that field is vast and full of difficulties, especially because of its very mobile nature and by virtue of the people we work with, which requires the greatest possible security.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

I will gather the data which you need and I will communicate to you those that I find. I warn you however that I have no direct communication with anybody because there has been a general disbandment. I am seeking to reconnect them but there are difficulties created especially by two factors: groups which have formed in the small centers, - the other in the more or less small. There are only a few afraid ones left. I am not at all satisfied as to my work here. Friends believed to be the best and indicated to me as such and who had already in the past done illegal work assigned to them, in the beginning promise the seas and the mountains, - they do a little something. Then a fugitive, called, sweetly begged to, touching upon his personal spirit, etc, - after a great deal of time informs me that he no longer intends to do that work of which until then he had done none. This man by his inertia caused me to fail in several things including machine-guns and bombs. Another person was the same, - at first promising, does something, but is then taken by fright, - but at least he confessed it and does nothing more. The search for substitutes is difficult. I must still get one and I want to go slowly. Fortunately there are only a few who are working. I hope to be able to let things go along better in the future. Our friends do not convince themselves of the great importance which their work can have if done with prudence, with calm, with constancy and scrupulously. I don't really know what means I must use; also because what they have done to me constitutes a grave ~~non~~casus (let alone the moral values) and a purely disciplinary matter. In any case the contacts have been made except for a few from Rome and in the province. The latter for the reasons which I set forth in the beginning of the letter. Concerning the transport of the monies collected to the end of the month in the municipal collection offices or deductible during its journey: I again took the matter up but now I adopted that type with the Fiat motor, and therefore, I believe, it has increased a great deal the difficulty of a purchase. Until now, as you will understand, I have worked alone and lost a great deal of time. If you believe that it is possible now and you want to buy it you must let me help. I am making arrangements for the manufacture of powder and bombs, Sipe type. I am having the models cast, and other friends the spezzoni (Editor's comment: may mean fuses. Has several meanings). I communicated this to Lemmi in order that he might write it to you since I did not have time. However we must make several other tests to obtain a single type which is practical and economical and technically perfect. I am studying whether it is possible to make poisonous gases. I am of the opinion that it would be a stupid thing not to exploit whatever there is new scientifically in every field. There are for example radio transmitting and receiving stations, very, very small, portable. Have we used them? Our friends the F's (Fascists?) however possess them and will use them. So, whatever is accomplished in this regard, when we have had good practical results, I will communicate to you, or if I do not have time I will let you know.

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

III. COMINTERN

- A. Document 33002/1-9-23 from folder 69, entitled E.K.K.I.
(Executive Committee of the Communist International.)

3164 R/ 14-9-23

I confirm the transmittal of one hundred thousand lire on 24-8. I proceed to a verification of the accounts deposited to our Party which do not correspond with the COMINTERN registrations in reality because of mixups of translations effected by CHIARINI, - asserts that the Party has, with the transmittal one hundred thousand, already received all of its balance to the end of August, but instead there is still due nearly another whole monthly amount. Be certain that you attain a regularization. Inasmuch as I shall enter the COMINTERN organically from the first the first of September I beg you to send me by balance for my salary for the month of August.

I left GASPERINI a fund of three hundred lire which you will want to reimburse me. The expenses of my trip amount to two thousand three hundred and ninety which will be reimbursed to you by the COMINTERN. Inasmuch as I received from the Party only two thousand there is due me a balance of three hundred ninety lire. Send me one thousand six hundred and ninety lire which is the total due me. I have learned that STROIAN will leave Rome definitely in September. Hurry the memorandum of the deliberations of the Executive on the Party organizational situation and the passover of the management. The condition of the workers made a good impression at Moscow. The resignation of BRUNO has been refused. As to the resignation of AMADEO, the Presidium is suspended until he is liberated. The Vecchi subsidy has been reduced by the Profintern to three thousand monthly. Greetings.

"I discussed in the Profintern the extraordinary subsidy for the Confederal Congress. Attained: an immediate payment of two thousand dollars; an internal application of the Profintern to the Commission that the latter pays other thousands. In case of a negative reply, the Profintern will later pay still another thousand. I also attained the payment of two hundred dollars in settlement of the S.R. deficit. A general transmittal will take place with the first courier. Cordial greetings to everyone.

C. Document 33001 6 December 1923 N.P. 176c.

The Budget Commission accepted the conclusions of Pj., reducing the monthly allowance to 82 thousand. My violent protests were in vain. Only the Party can still do something, writing fully directly to the Presidium, ZINOVIEF. It would be better to write in German. The monthly payment for November was reduced to 64 thousand, since the Comintern had paid the Party on account 8800, - for the voyage of the two envoys to America; three thousand for my trip to Italy; ten thousand in settlement of the Berlin Committee. Total 21,800, which with 64 thousand constitutes the monthly amount for November. I have decided to send immediately the balance for November and the entire month of December. Prepare and send at once the estimate for the first trimester of 1924. HUMBERT - DROZ nominated (for the hundredth time) representative to Italy.

ANSELM, fnu.

France

- A. File No. 76 contains miscellaneous correspondence with one letter marked, "Letter to ANSELM, representative of the P.C.I. in France".
File No. 119 is headed "ANSELM" and contains cryptograms and the following documents: "The correspondent of L'Humanita of London to the Editor of The Worker"; "Trieste"; "Regulations for the functioning of the Executive Commission of the Italian work groups in France, signed by Mario"; "Political letter of the French P.C. to the Italian comrades"; "Letter from the French Communist Party which warns that the password for illegal passengers through the frontier is known"; "Mario solicits the Executive for the passage of illegals, etc."; "Letter from ANSELM"; "The ANSELM memorandum"; "Circular for the Fascists in France"; "Long letter signed by ANSELM of Paris to the C.E."; "For the German defense"; "Signatures of AMADEO"; "Bechis GIACOMO requests membership in the P.C.I., lives at Villeurbamse, rue de la Bastille 14"; "Reports of ANSELM".

A letter dated 31 October 1923 addressed to ANSELM reads:

"Repeat briefly the contents of your enciphered---- (word missing) attached to your first letter. We are in possession of your address. Communicate to us whether you have organized the direct liaison on your side. Do not send anything anymore to the Torino address. Arrange soon to send to the military course in Moscow of which you are informed (if to the contrary advise me) comrades BONINO, Bernolfo; TAMBURINI, Angelo, MARAZZI, Giuseppe....."

A long letter addressed to the "C.E. of the P.C.I.", dated 15 November 1923, discusses the subject of a Party press and newspaper then continues:

"P's school has been arrived at by ANSELM's comrades, less two, and they have arrived at headquarters. The expenses shall integrally be upon the Party. The matter was brought to B. who has so decided because this is done for all the other P's and it is not desired to create precedents. The expenses sustained here are only the trip of M.P. and therefore not much. The greater expenses are made by ANSELM and it must be seen whether he can be paid in installments. The comrades who have arrived have raised some questions...There are now here fifteen comrades for schooling. Two should still be sent by ANSELM and three by URBANI... (signed) MASCI".

A message dated 3 August 1923 lists Venician postal addresses. The addresses for letters sent by ANSELMI are: "BENEDETTO, student, San Rocco, Chinese Branch, C/o Prof. DELLASTA, 2nd Floor; COSTA, Amadeo, railroad man, Gallion, Bari, 1135 first floor; Prof. Lungo BARDI, Accademia 981, also Superior Commercial School, CA FOSCARI.

The following message was sent from Rome to Mentone 2 October 1923:

"I have received your forwarding points. To write to us directly address it to : FELICE MONTANARI, General Delivery, Rome. Our addresses heretofore given you have been abolished. Inform me whether the liaison (by letter) with France is functioning. If in the affirmative we shall send you the address of ANSELMI which we possess and you will be charged with sending him our mail. Communicate to us the address to which you can receive ANSELMI's correspondence in order that we may be able to send it to you. Send us at once the statistics, brought up to date of the membership of your entire secretariat....", no signature.

A message to VERCESI, dated 5 December 1923 reads:

"You should write to CUNEO using a double envelope. A chauffeur should bring the correspondence to Mentone where ANSELMI would arrange to withdraw it. I have received no information from ANSELMI to whom I have written concerning the liaison between Mentone-Paris. I beg you to make the arrangements." No signature is given.

B. Possible traces:

- 1) ANSELMI, fnu. This man became a member of the Secretariat of the local Camera del Lavoro at Milan approximately January 1949. He is described as a "Fervent and intransigent Communist" who is well known among workers in Milan and well thought of by the Milanese Communist Federation. He has served as vice president of the Provincial Committee of I.N.A. for invalids of industrial accidents.
- 2) ANSELMI, Giorgio. A Communist Party member at Genoa who in early 1950 was designated to coordinate sectional activity of the Party.
- 3) ANSELMI, Bruno. This man's name appears on a circular sent to PCI sectors containing names of Titoist leaders whom responsible leaders of the PCI are to surveille. Another report states that Bruno ANSELMI went with a group of partisans to Belgrade 20 October 1949.
- 4) ANSELMI, Alfredo. Born S. Cesario Panaro, 30 March 1900. He was an Italian delegate to the WFTU Congress at Prague, departing from Italy on 2 Sept 1949.

- B. Probably identical with Husni al-ARABI, born 1896, journalist, British intelligence agent who was reportedly arrested and expelled from Egypt many years ago (date not specified) for Communist propaganda. He is then stated to have spent many years in Russia and was not allowed to reenter Egypt until 1943 (?). In 1945 he was living at 8 Sharia Bursa al-Gadidah, and was apparently head of, or a leading member of, al-Khubz al-Hurriyah, a Communist organization. He has otherwise been described as a notorious British provocateur agent who penetrates the ranks of the workers and gets information which he transmits to his British chiefs. Husni al-ARABI holds a teaching certificate of the German language from the University of Berlin. He is stated to have worked for the British in Germany until they requested that he return to Egypt. Upon his return he directed his activities toward the German community. One report states that he was in the pay of both the Germans and the Soviets. Later he again worked among Egyptians. He was allegedly made one of the chief British agents after he submitted a report on the Egyptian Minister of Communications and on certain other functionaries of the Egyptian Palace. - B. Subject is possibly identical with Joseph BAREL, more commonly known as Virgile BAREL. Joseph BAREL was born ca. 1893 the son of an artisan in Nice-Banlieu. He has two brothers, and three sons. The oldest son, Max, was killed in 1944 when a major in the FTP. The second son, Guy, is a journalist for "Le Patriote de Nice". The third son is a student. Joseph BAREL attended the Ecole Normale d'Instituteurs at Nice and graduated first in his class. During World War I he served as a captain in the Chasseurs Alpins; he was wounded four times and received the Legion of Honor. After the War, he became a teacher (instituteur in Menton where he remained for about 15 years (probably from 1919 to 1934). In about 1934 he began his political career in company with SPINELLI (qv.), another teacher. In about 1935 he moved from Menton to Nice where his wife was teaching at the Ecole Communale Vernier. In 1936 he was elected deputy from the third Circonscription of Nice on the Communist ticket. When the CP was dissolved in September 1938, BAREL became a member of the Parti Ouvrier at Paysan Francais. He was among the 44 Communist deputies who signed the now-famous letter of October 1939 which called on the French Government to make peace with Germany. As a result of this letter, he was condemned to 5 years imprisonment by the 3rd Military Tribunal of Paris on 3 April 1940 and was subsequently deported to Algeria. From then until he was freed in 1943, BAREL remained interned in Algeria. In 1944 he became Chief de Cabinet for Francois BILLOUX, Minister of State of the CFLN in Algiers. On 16 September 1944 he was named Mayor of Nice. In September 1945 he was elected Conseiller General for the 2nd Canton of Nice. On 21 October 1945 he was elected deputy to the Constituent Assembly; deputy to the second Constituent Assembly 2 June 1946; on 10 November he was elected deputy from the Alpes-Maritimes. On 27 October he was elected municipal councillor in Nice, and on 20 March 1949, he became conseiller general for the 2nd Canton in Nice. All of the above was on the Communist ticket. As of April 1949 subject was living at Villa Aurore, Avenue Moriez, Nice-Cimiez. His wife at that time was director of the Ecole Communale de Filles at Sainte-Helene-Nice. BECHIS, Giacomo

France

- A. "Bechis Giacomo requests membership in the P. C. I.; he lived at Villourbamse, rue de la Bastille 14." from file headed "ANSELMI."
- B. This trace is probably identical with one Giacomo BECHIS, born 21 May 1898 at Pont St. Martin, (Val d'Aosta), Italy, and residing as of May 1949 at 258 rue Paul Bert, Lyon. Subject has been a refugee in France, for political reasons, since 1933. He has been a member of the Centre d'Action et de Defense des Immigres (C.A.D.I.). He has been employed successively by the newspaper, "Le Progres", until 1940 and by the Italian Consulate, from 1945 to 1948. He has been expelled for communist activities by order of the Renseignements Generaux. He resides temporarily at Lyon, where he has to submit his "carte de sejour" for renewal every three months. The latest information on Giacomo BECHIS is of May 1949.

BENBASSAT, Mrs. V. and A.

Turkey

- A. Address: "Exchange House, Rue Fermondijiler, Galata, Istanbul. Inside envelope for COHEN." From "Schedule of Addresses of the C.E." as found in the ROMPICAPI folder.
- B. Probably identical with Messrs. Vitali and Albert BENBASSAT. Vitali is a banker in Istanbul considered "an influential friend of the Turks and...an upright and honorable man". Albert Vitali BENBASSAT, Vitali's brother, works for Ismail KAPINCI at the stock brokerage at 7 Vakif Han. Reportedly Albert was deathly ill in the fall of 1949. One report stated that he suffers from paralysis and has been an invalid for twenty-two years. No information shows Communist activity on the part of either of these men. Traces have been found on one Albert BENBASSAT who was known to have carried out illegal financial transactions in Switzerland during World War II. It has not been possible to obtain his present location and to identify him with the Albert BENBASSAT of Istanbul.

BERNARDI, Guglielmo

BIANCHI, Carlo

Trieste

- A. "Carlo BIANCHI - Trieste - BILAGHEI, Albino, Via Rossetti 20". This excerpt is from a deciphered list which in some cases appears to provide keys to cryptonyms used. Possibly BILAGHEI is BIANCHI's real name. The following is from an unsigned message date 3 July 1923:
- "To BIANCHI - Trieste - folder 333 URGENT...Several days ago we sent you a comrade to pass over the frontier...we could not send you any previous advice because there was uncertainty as to your private address."
- Another unsigned message, this time dated 6 July 1923 reads:
- "To Carlo BIANCHI, Trieste. Folder 333. We need quick and objective information on a certain DEPNIGHER, Francesco di Pietro from Muggia- whether he was a member of the Party, his activities, why he left his home. This comrade now finds himself in Russia. Reply quickly to all our questions. Cordial greetings."
- A folder marked, "Fedorations O.P.Q.R.S.T.U.V.Z." refers to the "resignations of Carlo BIANCHI". No further details appear.
- A communication of 23 July 1923 to Carlo BIANCHI, Trieste reads in part:
- "We beg you to interest yourself personally in locating a comrade printer, a secure sympathizer, technically able to direct a small printing plant."
- Another message in folder 333 to BIANCHI and dated 7 August 1923 states:
- "We are interested that the Executive Committee make the provisions for Antonio IURAGI and Antonio RIBARICH.."
- An undated fragment reads:
- "Office address confirmed; this is the new address: Signorina Maria SOTTICH, Via Parisi 5, 3rd floor. Second envelope for GIANNI, pseudonym Carlo BIANCHI. For the passages everything is ready".
- Here it appears that BIANCHI may be the cryptonym for one GIANNI.
- B. Although the name Carlo BIANCHI appears to have been used as a pseudonym in these documents, there are traces of at least two persons of this name who are listed among political leaders of Italy at the present time. One is Carlo Giuseppe BIANCHI, a Socialist Party leader who was born in Mortara; the other, Carlo Umberto BIANCHI, is a member of the Partito Repubblicano Italiano. In 1946 the latter was a candidate in the Rome city elections.

"VINDEK (Vice) - BILAGHER, Albino, Via Rossetti 20, Trieste"

A report of September 1949 describes subject as a clerk employed by a notary public who has "always professed democratic ideas". The report adds that neither the Federal Police nor the police force of Rosario have derogatory information on him. He was residing in 1949 at Calle Reconquista 1176, Rosario.

- A. Address: "Iglaseggasse 37, Vienna XIX." This name and the address are found in the ROMPICAPI folder of addresses of the C.E.
- B. Possibly identical with Dr. Leopold HEINDL, lawyer, born 21 September 1899 at Vienna; married to Eleonore nee GRUNER; has two children. From 1919 until 1927 HEINDL was a member of the KPÖ and after 1927 was associated with the SPÖ. In 1938 he took over a leading law practice from a Dr. Robert REIH who was forced to go to America to avoid persecution. It is believed that Dr. HEINDL belonged to the NSDAP during the illegal period although there is no proof to this effect. He was reported to have represented the NSDAP in legal proceedings in Vienna at one time. In 1940 HEINDL's right to practice law was suspended temporarily by the Vienna Rechtsanwalt-kammer as the result of HEINDL's denunciation of his land-lady for racial reasons. No derogatory information is available now on HEINDL; his political orientation has not been determined.

MISIANO, fnu.

A. Address: "Rosestrasse 40, 3rd floor, bei DE REGENSC, Berlin-Tempelhof; and, Aid Committee, Unter den Linden 11, Berlin (for MISIANO)." These addresses are in the ROMPICAPI folder of C.E. addresses. According to a list of pseudonyms dated 29 July 1923 and sent to "G.R.C. 13" from "LEONIDA", MISIANO's pseudonym is STELLA.

A message of 21 June 1923 to an undesignated person reads: "MISIANO begs me to cipher the following for GAROSI which you will decipher and communicate to him: 'MOST SECRET. Dear GAROSI, we have reason to believe that SCHEFFEL would be able to have the sale of our film negotiated, seeking to realize an extra profit for himself. It is necessary to be vigilant to ascertain if he actually is following such an objective, and to impede him from reducing it to fact. It is necessary therefore, if these suspicions have basis in fact, that you withdraw the film from him, regularize the matter at the Customs and then deal with other persons directly, or through other persons of confidence. We beg you to determine if, for "POLIKUSCA" there was offered so low a price as has been communicated to us (169,000, then 15,000, then 10,000 lire) whereas we know that such a film could be sold in Italy for no less than 40,000 lire. Send us news. STELLA!"

An unsigned message dated 26 October 1923 from Berlin reads: "Comrade MICHELANGELO informs me that comrade VOTA asks him to tell MISIANO to try to establish with him and TASCA an ordinary contact independent of the official relations with the Party. The comrade carried away a bad impression. What does this mean? Does it have to do with a fractional representation? It was requested that an information service be established for and from Italy."

A cryptogram from Berlin dated 24 October 1923, apparently sent by MISIANO to Rome or to Milan contains the following message:

"Comrade MICHELANGELO has arrived. It seems that it is most difficult to send him to America. I was unable to locate HERTA --no sooner is a contact established than it is lost for unexpected reasons. I will make a written statement as to whether a comrade can be sent there. If not, he should be made to re-enter Italy. If required, the expenses (including payment to the guide 58.50 Swiss francs) will be reimbursed by the American or Italian Party."

~~SECRET CONTROL / U.S. OFFICIALS ONLY~~

- B. Subject is possibly identical with one Francesco MISIANO, born 26 June 1894 near Naples. He joined the Socialist Party in 1907 and from 1908 to 1914 served as secretary of the Naples branch of that Party and also as secretary of the Railroad Workers' Union and as secretary of the local Clerks' Union. Francesco MISIANO reportedly refused to take part in World War I and fled to Switzerland from which country he was soon expelled for revolutionary activities. He left for Murmansk allegedly on Party orders where he was to serve as the editor of a paper for Italian soldiers, but enroute to Murmansk he stopped off in Berlin and remained there for a time aiding German Communists. In 1919 Francesco MISIANO was elected Socialist deputy to the twenty-sixth Legislative from Turin and Naples. In 1921 he was elected to the Executive Committee of RILU and to the Central Committee of the Workers' International Relief. In 1924 subject became manager of the Workers' International Relief activities in the USSR. In 1929 he became Chairman of the Artists' Council of Meshrabhom Film Society. Another source states the Francesco MISIANO was a member of the Executive Committee of the Comintern who migrated to the USSR and that he became more Russian than Italian.

- A. Address from the ROMPICAPI folder of C.E. addresses:
"M. and Mme. Rue de Regard 16, 2nd Floor (Latin quarter), Paris."
- B. Probably identical with Simon POSNER, born 7 November 1879 at Moscow; Polish national; his address from 1927 to an undetermined date was 14 rue du Regard, Paris. He entered France in 1907 and worked as a journalist, lawyer and a legal representative for the Russian Bank for Commerce and Industry at 11 bis Rue Scribe. From 1921 to 1923 he was assistant director in the Bank of Sweden and of Paris. In April 1925 he became associated with the Commercial Bank for North Europe at 26 Avenue de l'Opera and reportedly was still connected with this organization as of January 1935. He has been described as devoted to the Soviet regime and enjoys its confidence. Simon POSNER was a former revolutionary socialist; after the Bolshevik revolution he was appointed Secretary of the Executive Committee of Russian Political Organizations at Paris. The latter was also called the "Official Committee of Russian and Soviet Repatriation of Paris". It facilitated the return to Russia of militant Bolsheviks. POSNER frequently traveled outside of France and obtained numerous visas for several countries. During World War II he was interned at Rolland Garos camp and was transferred to Vernet camp on 11 October 1939. A report dated 26 October 1950 stated that subject disappeared at the time of the German occupation and that he reportedly had been deported by the Germans and was probably dead. Simon POSNER had a daughter, Anna, born 22 August 1917. On 1 August 1942 the U.S. Office of Censorship examined a letter of 27 July 1942 from Vladimir POZNER, 605 Woodmont Avenue, Berkeley, California, to Fernando GA'BOA, Avenida Xalapa 127, Mexico, D.F. POZNER begged the addressee to secure a Mexican visa for his uncle, Simon POSNER, who was threatened with internment in a concentration camp in France, and the latter's daughter. Simon POSNER was described as a Polish national; the daughter, French. GA'BOA was reminded that Simon POSNER had served as director of the bank created during the Spanish Civil War to make transactions for the Spanish Republic and afterward had headed "France-Navigation" whose boats did "very useful work". A report of 30 March 1951 from a usually reliable source in Mexico states that Simon POSNER had been in Mexico, but that he had left for the United States in 1944 or 1945 and was reportedly working in Hollywood.

This excerpt is from a message dated 7 August 1923 to an unstated addressee and is signed "LEONIDA". "We are interested that the Executive Committee make the provisions for Antonio IURAGA and Antonio RIBARICH; to have acted with too much haste brings this inconvenience. It is necessary to advise the organs of the Party about the emigrants in a timely manner. The Parties abroad cannot recognize documents issued by local sections. If he decides to attend the military course at Moscow mentioned above, advise us, and let him depart at once with the others or after them...Inform Fidia of the nature and obligations of this course." This excerpt is from an unsigned message to Paris dated 31 October 1923.
"In a preceding enciphered letter we charged you with proposing to Fidia SASSANO that he go to Russia to attend the course to which Bernolfo and the others were sent. Here is the address by which you will be able to find Fidia if you have not yet succeeded in doing so: MARTINI Amadeo, chez Mme. BOURGIN, Place Victorien Gordon 7 (Guillotiere), Lyon." (From a message similar to the above dated 23 November 1923.)
- B. Fidia SASSANO is probably identical with Fidia SASSANO di Eduardo, Communist courier, who was arrested by Italian police at Padova 24 June 1927. Traces have also been found on one Fidea SASSANI, a well-known Communist propagandist active in Paris and Nice, who used the name Mario VANNI in 1927. SASSANO di Eduardo is probably identical with SASSANI alias VANNI. Traces on "VANNI" revealed the presence of a person of this name in Sweden in 1945. SPINELLI

- A. The following fragment is found in a message dated 27 June 1923, most of which was not decipherable: -"always under the signature of ALDO SPINELLI in order that in waiting"....
"M. SPINELLI, Avenue de la Gare 7, Maison du Parc, Menton (Ecole de la vieille ville)".
This address is from the ROMPICAPI folder.
"Proposal to SPINELLI to go to North America"...This appears as the title of some correspondence which is not included in the available material.
- B. Subject is probably identical with Laurent SPINELLI. Known to have lived in Menton until 1939, and that he taught in Menton at the same time BAREL (qv) was teaching there. The two men are good friends, having commenced their political careers together in 1934. In 1943-1944 Laurent SPINELLI was the leader of a Communist resistance group in Carros (Alpes-Maritimes), and at the time of the Liberation he became president of the Carros Committee of Liberation. In August 1944 he became president of the Commission d'Epuratation for the Alpes-Maritimes with offices in Nice. While president of this Commission, he imprisoned many non-Communists and requisitioned and confiscated a considerable amount of personal property, presumably to the profit of the Communist Party. In September 1945, he was the Communist candidate for the Conseil General in the 4th Canton of Nice, but was not elected. In January 1947, he was appointed vice president of the civil hospital in Nice. In October 1947 he was elected major of Carros on the Communist ticket. Reportedly he also is a member of Syndicat National des Instituteurs (CGT).
